

EZ QUANTUM WATERING DEVICE

MODEL

EZ-A150

"EZ QUANTUM WATERING DEVICE" is a specialized, high-tech device. Inside the machine's body, quantum technologies such as "Molecular Collision" and "Multipolar Magnetic Fields" are integrated to transform the quality of incoming water into a superior form, optimized for the growth of plants and animals. In addition, the entire structure of the machine and its accessories are made from inox304, ensuring durability and resistance to environmental effects over time. Thanks to the integrated quantum technology, as water flows through the machine, its quality is completely transformed. Specifically, water molecule clusters are broken down into smaller clusters with hexagonal structures, or even into single water molecules. All toxic gases present in the water are completely eliminated as the water passes through the machine. Total dissolved solids (TDS) in the water are reorganized at the molecular level. As a result of these changes, the water exiting the machine becomes negatively charged, ultra-small, superconductive, extremely fast, and highly energized—creating an ideal environment for the development of plants and livestock. This type of water is known as EZ (Exclusion Zone) Water, with the chemical formula H_3O_2 .
